REDEFINING MARRIAGE WILL MAKE

MARRIAGE IS A PERSONAL PROMISE WITH A PUBLIC PURPOSE

MOMS & DADS OPTIONAL

We believe each child in Bermuda should have both a mom and a dad as much as possible because a mother and a father bring separate, distinct and irreplaceable parent gifts in the life a child.<sup>1</sup> How can society teach that fathers are essential, when redefining marriage will make fathers optional?

1. Mark Regnerus, FamilyStructureStudies.com

Governments have been involved in marriage for thousands of years because governments recognize, protect and promote marriage as the ideal institution for having and raising children. This confirms what social science has shown for decades; when one or more of a child's biological parents are not involved in a child's life, society tends to suffer for it.<sup>2</sup>
